March 30.—The Court of Com- Hamilton county, Ohio, Judge Storer, rendered a decision in the Western Union Telegraph Co. Atlantic & Cincinnati Railroad & Ohio Co. and granting injunction against the use of the wire recently erected between Cincinnati and Parker's Ferry by the defendants. This is the old long pending and complicated case, and the decision is regarded as a substantial victory for the Western Union over the U. & P. Telegraph.

Highway Robbery.

DEADWOOD, March 30.—Edward Maran, of Cheyenne, who left here with a team, was stopped by two armed men five miles from here to-day, who tied him to a tree and stripped him, taking from him $200 in dust, some currency and a watch and chain.

Jumping a Street.

An attempt made to jump a street was prevent by a body of armed citizens. The people are anxious for the protection of law, which long delayed, renders the formation of a vigilance committee almost a necessity.

Railroad Freights.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Inquiry at the office of the railway confirms the report that the schedule of freights, adopted last winter by the Trunk Lines, is ignored entirely by all the roads. Receiver Jewett had the Baltimore and Ohio to fight the war by lowering rates on east bound freights, claiming that the Pennsylvania railroad had inaugurated the cutting. Scott denies this positively. Jewett says an effort will be made to to readjust the matter. The Post says: We are told that Western bound freights have not been disturbed, and that the only changes in Eastern bound are from Southwestern points and on grain freights only, and that there is good reason to believe the differences will be arranged next week.

Property Destroyed.

BIDDEFORD, Me., March 30.—Under the pressure of ice and water in the Saco river, B. D. Jordon's saw mill with valuable machinery, was swept away at the falls last night. Another mill of the same party is partly undermined, and it is thought will also go. In which case it is feared it will carry away the dam and cause great destruction along the river.

Pronounced Safe.

NIAGARA FALLS, March 30.—The engineers appointed to examine the suspension bridge report it entirely safe.

The Venezuela Frauds.

NEW YORK, March 30—3:30 P. M.—Judge Russell, U. S. Minister to Venezuela, arrived here to-day en route to Washington. In an interview he said the charges of bribery in connection with the Venezuela claims, made by him in a letter to Secretary Fish, would be sustained by proof.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

The Times' Washington special says ex-Gov. McCormack, of Arizona, has been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in place of Conant.

Postal Affairs.

CHICAGO, March 29.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says petitions for postoffice, which used to come through Congressmen, are now filed in daily deluges at the Postoffice Department.

Postmaster General Key has requested the appointment of Judge Freeman, an old whilte ex-Confederate and Republican, as solicitor of the Postoffice Department in place of Judge Spence.

Official Changes.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The Times Washington special says: Ex-Gov. McCormack, of Arizona, has been tendered, and to-day accepted the position of assistant secretary of the treasury, in the place of Conant. In making this change, the President and Secretary of the Treasury desire it to be distinctly understood they believe there is not any foundation for the recent charges against the late, named Gen leman. The change is made, not because he is not in every way fitted for the position, but because, in accordance with well-known usage, the secretary desires to select as his second in command a gentleman who is known to him personally. Conant, as a reward for his long and faithful services as assistant secretary, has been appointed to the position of chief agent of the syndicate in London.

John P. Bigelow, present chief agent, will be retained as first assistant.

Naval Salaries.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The Times Washington special says: The last appropriation of salaries of officers for the navy for the fiscal year is altogether insufficient. In order to bridge over the deficiency for the ensuing three months, the Secretary of the navy will issue an order directing that after April 1st officers upon sea duty only will receive full pay. This order will continue in force until the end of the present fiscal year, after which the appropriation for the present fiscal year, ending June 30, 1878, becomes available. In correcting the first blunder, the Democrats of the last House made another quite as bad as the first. Congress will be asked at the extra session to make a second appropriation to cover deficiencies.

Georgia Appointments.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Judge Lochrane, Georgia, had a long interview with the President last night. The Judge says the questions talked over referred more to Georgia State appointments than national politics. He was impressed with the cordial manner of the President, and was gratified with the result of the conversation. President Hayes was, in his judgment, an honest man, and would in proper time sweep out every official in the State who has clung to office by adhesion or love of public plunder. The Judge says some Democrats will have a place, but they must be men who can popularize the government. The President has made up his mind that his appointments shall come up to the standard of fitness.

Civil Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—One feature of the civil service reform will be the entire abolition of all political tests upon making any changes in the public service.

Postmaster-General Key is considering the appointment of a successor to Judge Spence, assistant attorney-general for the postoffice department. Judge Freeman of Tennessee, it is thought has been offered the position. The appointment has not however been fully determined.

This afternoon the President received a delegation of colored citizens from Alexandria urging the appointment of Prof. Langston for Commissioner of Agriculture. The President said he recognized in the man the justice of the claim for able colored men to be appointed to office, and that he had the highest regard for Prof. Langston, but doubted whether he should appoint him to that particular position.

Some 15 or 20 temporary clerks in the Navy Department will be dismissed to-morrow. They have been employed in the department for two or three years past and paid either as writers for the navy yards or out of the contingent funds of the several bureaus,—there being no provision of law authorizing their employment or making appropriations for their compensation as clerks. Secretary Thompson announces his purpose to have no one in the department not expressly provided for by law.

Agents Appointed.

The following Indian agents have been appointed: James Lawrence of Dakota, for the spotted Tail agency, Nebraska; James Patton, of Wyoming, Shoshone agency, Wyoming.

The Hot Springs Property.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Ex Senator Cragin of New Hampshire, ex-Representative Coburn of Indiana, and ex-Governor Stearns of Florida, have been appointed a commission to take charge of the Arkansas Hot Springs property, and make satisfactory arrangements with the squatters thereon.

Fighting Whisky Men.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Advices from Greensboro, N. C., state that Collector Patterson, with a posse of men, made a raid on illicit distillers in Watauga county and were fired upon. Two of the posse were killed and Patterson wounded.

Rear Admiral Retired.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Rear Admiral Reed Warden, U. S. N., has been retired on his own request, and Commodore Thomas Patterson promoted to the grade of rear admiral to fill the vacancy.

Serious Charges against Gov. Axtell.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A series of extremely grave charges against Gov. Axtell, of New Mexico, were filed in the Interior Department to-day, and will be made the subject of immediate examination. They are presented by W. B. Mathiott, professedly in behalf of the people of Colfax county, and are privately backed by numerous attorneys and parties interested in the famous Maxwell grant, which is claimed to cover nearly the whole of that county. This grant for an enormous area of land, ninety five miles long and 24 miles wide, was in general terms confirmed by act of Congress in 1860, but issuance of patent has been successfully opposed from year to year by various parties in New Mexico, in whose interests it is now claimed Axtell has wrongfully and corruptly exercised the powers of his official position. The charges assert that Axtell, during his five months' residence in Utah, while Governor of that Territory, his Secretary became a Bishop in the Mormon church, and that immediately upon his transfer to New Mexico he set about contriving and executing measures to oppose and drive off the Dutch colonists and other settlers from the Maxwell and other grants, with a view to reducing the grants to public domain and having the country settled and owned by Mormons. Extracts are quoted from private letters published in the Salt Lake Herald, September 8, 1875, signed by F. Bispo, expressing regret that a premature government in the Gentile town of Corrine had prevented the success of a similar plan for the extermination of the Gentiles in certain parts of New Mexico, and Axtell is distinctly and positively charged with being the author of this letter. The charges then proceed to assert that Axtel and other members of the alleged ring harrassed the Dutch settlers with illegal tax levies, ejectment suits and criminal indictments of all sorts, and procured the enactment of law removing the courts and all pending causes from Olmmaron to Taos district, fifty-five miles over lofty mountains, and roads almost impassable with snow in the winter, the effect being in total disregard of the constitution and equity, and to subject these settlers to indictment and trial by citizens of another county, besides the hardships involved in the loss of time and painful journeys to stand trial or testify as witnesses. Mathiott, who signs these charges, is well known in Washington as the principal mover of the recent Congressional investigation into the Venezuela commission awards, in relation to which he sustained his assertions, but he is not regarded as a man of high character for reliability, and Axtell's friends here believe these charges will be completely disproven, although from the strength of the influences which are secretly urging and supporting them, it is manifest that their investigation and publicity can not be prevented.

National Bank Notes.

Issues of national bank notes for the month were $1,970,100, of which 80 per cent in greenbacks were distributed, leaving the outstanding legal tender circulation at $362,540,204.

Charges against ex Consul Seward.

The charges against ex Consul General Seward, now minister to China, are said to be the result of an old quarrel between Seward and the present Consul General. There is nothing in the Department of State showing anything who ever discreditable either to his public or private character.

Decision Regarding R. R. Lands.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Proceedings of interest to all settlers within the twenty mile limit of the California and Oregon Railroad have just occurred at the general land office. Some years ago, while in the House of Representatives, Sargent procured the passage of a law dedicating exclusively to homestead and pre-emption purposes all lands in California with in the rail road limits whenever they should be restored to the body of public lands, they being when thus restored to the public domain prior to the enactment of the law, subject to private entry and liable to be bought in quantities without settlement. Sargent recently received letters stating that this law was being disregarded, and that homestead and pre emptory settlers were having their lands taken away from them for the benefit of private entry purchasers. He at once call the attention of the general land office to this condition of things, and the result is that all such entries are suspended, with the exception of two which have been patented, and the register has been called for an explanation of his action allowing them. As soon as an official reply is received these entries will be cancelled, and the party to whom the patents were issued be required to surrender them. The plain provisions of the law had obviously been overlooked in both the local and general land office.

McCormick's Appointment.

Governor McCormick's appointment to be Assistant secretary of the Treasury gives satisfaction not only to his personal friends, but to the Washington public generally. The especially gratifying circumstances attending it, is thought that the appointment was not requested by him or by any one acting for him, but was offered to him by the President at the sole instance of Secretary Sherman, who personally and officially declared it. The President had previously offered McCormick a foreign mission, and had taken occasion to express his appreciation of his character, ability and party services.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Egypt Joins the Fray.

BERLIN, March 30.—The Gazette states that the Khedive of Egypt has sent 2,000,000 cartridges to Turkey, and promised to send troops. The Bey of Tunis sent four complete Mitraleuse batteries and a large sum of money.

Austria and the Pope.

ROME, March 29.—The Papal nuncio at Vienna has sent to the Vatican a report of the conversation with Count Andrassy. Upon handing him the papers containing the recent allocution, Count Andrassy informed the nuncio that the Austrian government, while deeply interested in the welfare of the Holy See, desired to avoid any internal embarrassments, and therefore confided in the nuncio's prudence.

The Pope's Health.

ROME, March 29.—The Pope has completely recovered, and to-day received large numbers of Italian and foreign visitors.

Silver.

LONDON, March 30—4:30 P. M.—Silver, 54½; Reuter's brokers quote bar silver at 54½@55 and firm, while another authority says 54 and nominal.

The Von Stosch Difficulty.

LONDON, March 29.—The Times' Berlin special says interesting details have transpired relative to the solution of the Von Stosch difficulty. Both Prince Bismarck and Gen. Von Stosch were requested to submit reports to the Emperor, who after posting them sent an autograph letter to Von Stosch saying he had arrived at the conclusion that Prince Bismarck did not intend to attack Von Stosch when urging his remarks in the Reichstag, but only wished to inform the House that Von Stosch acted without his consent. The Emperor in conclusion points out that Prince Bismarck thought it necessary to acquaint the House with his views concerning the proper application of the surplus, and that this was a mere precautionary measure and no offense to Gen. Von Stosch. The correspondent remarks that this affair is of considerable constitutional importance. By enforcing subordination of the German ministers to the German premier it establishes a principle in the dispatch of Imperial business which has hitherto been unknown to Prussia and other separate State cabinets.

The Drouth Broken.

ADELAIDE, March 27.—The drouth in South Australia is broken. There have been heavy rainfalls over all the agricultural and pastoral districts, extending into the interior and right across the continent.

HAMPTON OR CHAMBERLAIN?

Further Negotiations.

Hampton will be Recognized by Hayes.

Chamberlain to be Pensioned Off.

Troops to be Withdrawn.

Views of the two Governors.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Gov. Hampton said to an Inter-Ocean correspondent that he had great confidence in the President. He liked Gov. Chamberlain personally, believed him an honest man, but thought himself duly elected. He was firmly supported now by the more intelligent colored people. All he wants is that Chamberlain be placed on the same footing as himself by having the militia withdrawn. He desires and can make no compromise. Chamberlain was already losing many personal adherents who were tired of office without honor or pay.

Chamberlain and friends assert that Hampton wants the troops withdrawn, to give him clubs a chance to seize the State House and seize the archives.

Hampton charges the press agents with misrepresenting him in his Southern speeches, made while en route here. The fact is he made a blunder, and the Democrats here have been training him against a repetition of it, causing him to repudiate his words. It is pretty certain, on the whole, that Hampton has received assurance that he will be practically recognized.

The Compilation's Work.

The Tribune's Washington special says the Louisiana Commission expect to conclude their labors in a week or ten days from the time of commencing.

The South Carolina Governorship.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The Times' Washington special says it is now considered probable that the policy to be adopted in regard to South Carolina, will lead to the ultimate recognition of Hampton as governor of that State.

Interview between Hayes and the Charleston Chamber of Commerce.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—After the presentation of the address by the Charleston Chamber of Commerce to-day Mr. Tupper, president of the Chamber, made a brief speech. He was followed by other speakers, among whom was Louis Desaussere, who said the people would accept no other government than Hampton's. He was that of a territorial condition in South Carolina. The President said that it might have been supposed that he could have acted earlier, but he could not act until his constitutional advisers had been appointed, and when appointed he and they were obliged to give attention to vacancies held to exist in the civil service. The most of such vacancies it was found could lie over, and his successor wouldn't be embarrassed as he was. He had now reached South Carolina, that his ultimate purposes were the same as those of the commission. He had invited Hampton and Chamberlain to Washington as the persons most likely to be able to give an intelligent statement of affairs, and was confident that a satisfactory solution would be found. The whole interview was very pleasant, and the committee was received with marked courtesy by the President. In the course of the interview Mr. Tupper asked the President if he apprehended any difficulty or disorder in the State. The President said he was glad to say he had no such fear. Tupper then asked if there was any reason for executive interference to keep the peace and order in South Carolina. The President laughingly said he couldn't answer such pointed questions.

Calling on the Departments.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The delegation from the Charleston chamber of commerce have divided themselves into committees to call on the several secretaries. The popular demonstration in favor of Hampton has been abandoned, conservative leaders thinking it not in good taste. Secretary Evarts read to the committee that waited on him a dispatch from leading New York bankers, urging that the most favorable consideration be given to the Charleston committee's views, and saying if time permitted they could have had the dispatch very generally signed. Evarts said that when the President was prepared to act he would do so on his own responsibility, not seeking to place any part of the burden on the Republicans of either side, and the parties they represented. Secretary Sherman said the President would of course make a decision in the Carolina case, but his hope was to relieve South Carolina of one of her two Governors in such a peaceful manner as to insure peace and absolute enjoyment of the rights of colored people. Much stress was laid on this point by all the secretaries.

Hampton's Chances.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The World's Washington special thinks there is no reason to doubt that Hayes will recognize Hampton, and hopes Nicholls will follow.

The Times' Washington special says the President does not attempt to conceal the fact that he believes the recognition of a Democratic State government would greatly benefit South Carolina and be satisfactory to the country generally.

A Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The Cabinet met again to-day. It is known that the conversation between Hampton and the President formed a prominent topic of conversation.

Hampton on his Dignity.

CHICAGO, March 30.—The Journal's Washington special says: Secretary Schurz is not altogether satisfied with Hampton's promises, and last night attempted to get him to sign some agreement which could be used in case he became Governor, and ignored his verbal promises. Hampton definitely and utterly refused, and said the question is simple as a hoe handle—withdraw the troops and peace will follow. "This is all I want and the least I can accept." This fact, it is thought, causes delay in sending Ruger an order to withdraw the troops. It is asserted that the President has concered Chamberlain either the Spanish or Swiss mission if he withdraws from the contest.

A Muss about Hampton.

There came near being a free fight this morning when, as Hampton came from his hotel to the White House, a motley crowd, mostly ex-rebels, cheered him lustily, which led to hisses from some Republicans. The police, however, prevented trouble.

Probable Removal of the Troops.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Though no direct knowledge is obtainable from official sources as to the ultimate intentions of the general government upon the question of the political issues pending in South Carolina, there is an impression, sustained by various facts, that the end of the deliberations now in progress will be the issuance of an order removing the troops from the State House at Columbia. Anxiety is culminated in the action of the government. No discord can possibly result. A fair inference from events which have recently occurred, is that it will be announced soon. The deliberations of the cabinet to-day involved a careful review of the statements recently made to the President by Chamberlain and Hampton, and this will probably be continued to-morrow.

Appointments and Dismissals.

It is understood that the cabinet was engaged for a short time to-day with questions concerning a few appointments to office. About 200 employes will be dismissed from the bureau of engraving and printing of the Treasury Department to-morrow, in order to bring the force down to the actual requirements of the work.

Probable New British Minister.

CHICAGO, March 30.—The Tribune's Toronto special says: It is probable that Lord Duffer in will be offered the position of British Minister to Washington. His term of office of Governor-General of Canada expires next August.

POLITICAL.

Object of the Louisiana Commission.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The first object of the Louisiana commission will undoubtedly be to secure a legislature which both parties will acknowledge, and on which everything else will hang. The President expresses himself entirely confident of success, and the tone of his conversation with Southern gentlemen is most cordial and conciliatory. He has requested General Gibson and Col. Levy, of Louisiana, to repair to New Orleans and assist the commission in carrying out his scheme of pacification. They left to-night.

Pledges to the South.

NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—Major E. A. Burke, who represented the Nicholls government at Washington and who conducted the negotiations which resulted in the withdrawal of the opposition to the electoral count, having been urged to publish all the guarantees given by Hayes' friends as to Louisiana and South Carolina, declines at present to do so; asserting that no portion of the negotiation or assurances were of creditable to Mr. Hayes or to gentlemen of either side, that the Speakership was never considered, and that the national Democracy have no cause to complain of the patriotic disposition which Louisiana Democrats, after the national party of the nation had by a caucus vote, refused to make a stand for themselves or for Louisiana or South Carolina.

Louisiana Legislative Proceedings.

J. Hale Sawyer, colored, to-day was expelled from the Packard legislature, charged with endeavoring to induce other members to join the Nicholls legislature. Mr. Stewart made a speech before leaving the State House, declaring he had only remained there for the purpose of creating dissension, etc. After making this speech he was expelled.

Ex-Governor Pinchback was appointed by Gov. Nicholls, and confirmed by the Senate, a member of the State board of education.

A. H. Carbin, (colored), formerly secretary of the city school board, was appointed by Nicholls tax collector of the sixth district of this city. Several other colored men have been appointed to lucrative offices.

Packard's Complaints.

Hayes is daily besieged with telegrams from Louisiana complaining of this or that other arrest by the Nicholls police; this or that other attachment by the Nicholls courts, and he is thus called upon to interfere in minute details of the State.

Hayes' Policy Endorsed.

A delegation from Arkansas, irrespective of party or color, several accompanied by colored men upon the President, and two or three speeches were made, all expressive of the hope that the peace policy of the President would be entirely successful. Attention was called to the circumstance of Democrats contributing to the election of Senator Dorsey and of Republicans assisting at the election of Senator Garland. President Hayes in reply, said this is a love feast that I did not expect. I am very glad to meet you all, and I am glad to know that the rest of good feeling has already arrived for Arkansas, and I hope it may be in no way diminished.

Origin of the Postal Matthews Letters.

NEW YORK, March 30.—An account is printed here of the meeting of the 27th of February at Worthey's hotel between Foster, Matthews, ex-Gov. Dennison, Garfield, Sherman and other friends of Hayes and Ellis, Gordon, Avery, Watterson, Col. Stark and other Southern Democrats. Ellis said Louisiana wanted peace, home rule and honest government, and that the Democrats in the House were filibustering to defeat the count under the apprehension that Hayes would sustain Packard and Chamberlain. Matthews replied as a personal and political friend of Hayes, that he latter believed the time had gone by when States should be upheld by military power, and if inaugurated his aim would be to give peaceful governments to the States of their own choice. Foster showed a letter from Hayes endorsing the speech made by Foster in the House. Watterson said that the policy of withdrawing the troops from South Carolina and Louisiana, enunciated by Matthews, was all that could be expected. Senator Sherman, in response to a query from Ellis, said he approved and endorsed all the propositions of Matthews in behalf of Hayes to Ellis. The Foster-Matthews letter appeared as sequence to the above meeting.

NOTES FROM THE DALLES.

Our occasional correspondent writing from the above point under date of March 27th, sends the following:

Capt. John Stumn is the acknowledged champion trout catcher in this city.

Messrs. Humason & Wigle shipped on Monday morning 60 head of beef cattle for the Portland market.

Several freight teams were loaded from the warehouse of Messrs. French & Co. for Prineville during Monday last.

Mr. John Jackson, from Victoria, shipped on Tuesday morning 500 head of mutton sheep for the Victoria market.

The late favorable reports from the Camp creek silver mines, in this county, is causing considerable excitement in our city.

Mr. Henry Colman, of the firm of Teal & Colman, stock raiser, of this county, has been in our city during the past few days.

Mr. Eugene McCarnic, our resident surveyor, returned on Monday last from Klickitat valley, where he has been running lines for Walton & Co., and reports a pleasant trip.

A gentleman from Rock creek, W. T., informs me that the oats and sheep of Mr. Wm. Abrams are in fine condition, having wintered the entire band without losing a single head.

Mr. J. Q. Shirley, from Petaluma, California, passed through our city on Monday last. Mr. Shirley intends to purchase during the coming month 2,000 head of beef cattle to ship to the Eastern market.

Mr. Joseph Levy, book-keeper for Messrs. M. and L. Newman, left on Wednesday morning last for Portland. Mr. Levy has had an affection of the throat for some time, and goes for medical treatment.

Mr. John Martin, superintendent of The Dalles and Sandy Wagon Road, was in the city during the first of the week on business connected with the road. Mr. Martin is pushing the work with all dispatch.

The Tennessee Jubilee Singers gave two entertainments in the Congregational church, in this city, last Monday and Tuesday evenings to the largest audiences that have ever greeted any performance in this city. The church being completely jammed and crowds turned away unable to gain admittance.

Mr. J. H. Marshbanks, of this city, informs me that he has purchased the one-half interest in the Canyon City stage line. He is now purchasing horses to restock the line, and takes charge the first of the month. Mr. Marshbanks has had extensive experience in the staging business, and will, without doubt, make this a paying investment.

During the Jubilee performance in this city on Monday evening last, the hoodlums convinced everybody that they had got this city in their own hands to perform their devilry in spite of officers and law. They carried their performance with a high hand climbing all over the roof of the building, carrying ladders for blocks and leaning them against the sides to look in at the ventilators 20 feet from the ground; putting boards against the windows to climb on, and in one instance pushing the entire window casing in some eight inches, and hooting and carsing to their hearts' content. Our city authorities entirely disregard these actions. Several of our prominent citizens held a meeting on Tuesday and intend to try the power of the law themselves

An American Consul Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Advices by last Panama steamer are that at Acapulco on the 6th of March, and by order of Gen. Jimenez, U. S. Consul John J. Ritter, Jr., was arrested in the street by 20 soldiers and put into prison, where he still is, against the protest of the United States Henry Easton, consul place was ill-treated at the time the arrest charge of government took place, and the Consul's remonstrances and protests against the proceedings were the cause or pretext of his imprisonment.

Crushed to Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—This morning Thomas Hopwood, a young man employed on the pile driver working at Market street wharf, ascended to the top of the machine for some purpose. While at work there he lost his balance and fell. He caught the rope used in hoisting the hammer, and was instantly drawn around the drum of the engine. The machinery was stopped instantly, but Hopwood was taken out quite dead. He was crushed into the narrow space between the drum and frame work, and the former had to be stopped before his body could be removed. His back, ribs and limbs were broken in numerous places, only his head and face escaping. He was a single man, aged 21.

Chinese Immigration.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—The steamer Oceanic arrived this afternoon from China and Japan, having on board over four hundred Chinese passengers, a greater number than has arrived on any one steamer since the anti-Coolie excitement checked immigration.

For Alaska.

The U. S. steam corvette Lackawanna sailed to-day for Massilan to inquire into the detention of the schooner Alaska by Mexican authorities.

There has been no rain here to-day, but a lively hail has occurred to the south and east, apparently general in the southern part of the State.

A Stranded Ship.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—The steamship Point Arena, in tow of the tug Fearless, which parted a hawser off Point Arena, and was compelled to run for Port Bragg, is now reported ashore at the mouth of Noyo river, 12 miles north of Port Bragg. The vessel will probably be a total loss. The steamer Fearless is now at Port Bragg.

Criminal Officials.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Deputy Clerks Burke, Rourke, Hughes and Lynch, of the Police Court, were both dismissed to-day, having been discovered this day last instant in connection with the case of a small box patient who died on the 10th inst. and was buried by the Receiving house, awaiting interment, until the 20th inst., when it was accidentally discovered by the coroner's officials. This is the first step brought about by the management of the present house under the present police board.

Vigilance Committee.

CHICO, March 29.—The citizens committee of safety are doing good work and are determined to prosecute to the bitter end all having to do in connection with the late murders and burnings in this locality. Six more arrests were made last night, over 30 o'clock being the balance of the arrests of nine to get with the secretary of the Labor Union. The names of the new arrests are Morton White, Ben. Smith, J. A. Cross, O. Swan, O. W. Rogers, J. H. Stratton and John C. Clair. Another man by the name of Samuel Clinson will probably be arrested to-day. The end is not yet. Before a grand jury next Monday some further developments are expected to take place. The success which has attended the work of the executive committee of citizens has renewed their zeal. The organizations for continued work was a grand master stroke. At the first meeting a written pledge was made out that none who belonged to the Order of Chevaliers of Labor Union, or legitimate societies should be permitted to join; also all merchants, business men, citizens and farmers to the number of over 300 have cheerfully come forward and signed the pledge that they belonged to no set or such order. Thus matters brought before the meetings of the committee was deceased with perfect freedom and harmony of action. From this large committee of safety, there has been appointed an executive committee who manage all matters pertaining to the work of investigation, and who have the entire assent of all agencies necessary to ferret out the conspirators.

The Council of Nine and Laborers' Union.

Most editions from Chico have referred to what is known as the "Council of Nine" as being mainly responsible for the recent outrages. This is a committee elected by the Laborers' Union for the trial of members for offences against the order. As vacancies occurred the Council filled them, and thus became independent of the order, and commenced the obedience of members. It was soon found that members were committing secret murders, and then came suggestions for the organization of armed, which have since come to light, and many that were never carried into execution. All the members of the Council are now under arrest. Many members of the Labor Union evidently know nothing of the crimes of the Council of Nine, and believe the order to be only to discourage the employment of Chinese by all lawful means. The oath administered to initiatory members of a Labor Union is as follows: I do solemnly swear that I will keep the secrets of the order. I further swear that I will assist any brother in need or distress so far as I am able; I further swear that I will aid in executing the laws of the United States of America, so help me God. There is a secondary degree in the order to which the oath is as follows: I swear before God Almighty that I will carry out and obey all orders of the Council of Nine, whatever they may be. If I do not so my life is forfeited, and may be surely taken, and I may be put to death by this Council of Nine. (Not a members are taken in that degree.) The oath administered to members of the Council of Nine has not yet been obtained but is understood to be of the most strict iron-clad order. The people of Chico now fear insurance companies will cancel risks in the town. New developments are continually being made, and some old officers declare that the Labor Union was cognizant of the acts of the Council of Nine, and the Council was used as a cloak for the order. It is positively asserted that the order in Sacramento and San Jose works on the same principle. The feeling continues very intense, and the people are very nervous and excited over the situation.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—A dispatch from Chico gives the full confession of A. M. Aines, reputed organizer of the Labor Union. He confirms the reports previously published as to the mission of the Council of Nine, stating that he joined the order for the purpose of exercising his influence against violence, and when he found it impossible longer to prevent it he withdrew. It appears from his statement that the Council of Nine has been sim-

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 31, 1877.

ADIEU.

With this issue I bid adieu to the readers of the OREGONIAN. Hon. H. W. Corbett and others, heretofore holding, in the aggregate, a controlling interest in the paper, have disposed of their stock, a large portion of which has been purchased by a gentleman of extended experience in journalism, and well known to the people of Oregon. He will occupy the editorial chair hereafter.

In taking my leave of the OREGONIAN and with journalism, a few words personal to myself and those who have closed their business relations with the paper, may be permitted. When I took editorial charge of the paper, four-and-a-half years ago, it was with greater distrust of my ability to discharge the duties of the position than I can express. Whether my work has been satisfactorily performed is for others to judge; it has been performed conscientiously. Knowing that no man in such a position could please everybody, I have not tried to do so; but have endeavored rather to be just in all matters relating to individuals, and to be right on all matters of public concern. The OREGONIAN has been the organ of no man or clique, and has declined to accept the dictation of any party organization. Mistakes may have been made as to details, but it was not a mistake to keep the paper independent of all political machinery. In justification of this view, it will perhaps not be considered an unpardonable exhibition of vanity to say its adoption as the policy of the paper has received the emphatic approval of an increase of more than a hundred per cent. in the OREGONIAN's circulation.

It is simple justice to Mr. Corbett to say that in all his relations with the paper, there has never been an intimation by him, direct or indirect, of any object or purpose other than that of advancing the best interests of the State and city of which he has so long been an honored citizen. He has never sought to control its columns to promote any political or business interest of himself or his friends, and has even abstained from asking that it defend him against the groundless charges which spite or jealousy have sometimes made through other journals. His wishes, as uniformly expressed by himself, both by word and deed, have always been that the OREGONIAN should occupy the high ground of legitimate journalism, should be a newspaper of which the Northwest coast might be proud, and in which correct principles of social, political and business morals might have a faithful exponent. Although engaged in other business enterprises in which the earliest receipt of telegraphic news from abroad might sometimes have given an advantage, he has neither enjoyed nor sought any such advantage; the readers of the OREGONIAN have received every line of telegraphic information as early as he has.

I leave the OREGONIAN without an unkind feeling toward those with whom political differences have brought me into sharp conflict. Where blows are given, blows must be taken. The best of frail human nature "strikes back" even in return for merited blows; and it is a low and narrow spirit indeed that would cherish revengeful feelings toward those who have done only what the best human nature prompts.

Though I have long desired to vacate the editorial chair and give exclusive attention to my profession, and though I have encouraged and assisted in bringing about the change which now takes place, it is with feelings of profound sadness that I part from the readers of the OREGONIAN, with whom I have come to regard my relations as those of a kind of personal association, and from the editorial staff with whom I have been so long a colaborer.

Prosperity and success to the OREGONIAN. Peace and happiness to all. Good bye.

W. LAIR HILL.

THE TEXAS PACIFIC.

The report of the House Committee on Railroads, which has just come to hand, gives a full statement of the terms and conditions on which aid is asked for the Texas Pacific line. A summary shows that the road is required to be built in sections of ten consecutive miles; that as these may be completed in accordance with provisions of law the company is to issue bonds, with interest guaranteed by government at five per cent. per annum, at a rate not exceeding $35,000 a mile for the main trunk and $25,000 a mile for branches; provided, however, that if a less amount of bonds will build the road the number delivered shall be correspondingly reduced. The government is to have a mortgage paramount to all other liens, and to receive for application to payment of interest all amounts earned by the road for postal and military transportation. The trunk line is to extend from Fort Worth, Texas, to San Diego, California, a distance of 1,287 miles. The eastern connections provided for aggregate 1,018 miles. If the whole amount of bonds should be issued, the total would be $68,095,000, and the annual interest charge would be $3,409,750. Friends of the bill assert that the government would gain by free transportation of its mails and in other ways an amount equal to the interest charge; but this may be doubted. In the argument of the committee there is the usual statement of the immense indirect and collateral advantages which may be expected to accrue to the country from the construction of the road. It may be expected that the South at the next session of Congress will come up as a unit in support of this measure. Most of the leading newspapers of the Northern States are hostile to it. Their opposition is based on the general ground of objection to acceptance of further obligations of this description by the government. The arrogance of the present corporations is urged as an insuperable objection to further aid, even to the limited extent asked by recent projects. In any general scheme for railway construction through government aid, Oregon might hope reasonably for a share; but an omnibus scheme is liable to fail in consequence of its magnitude and the apprehensions it would excite, while any plan of mixed scope could hardly get strength enough to push it through.

A CARD AND THE ANSWER THERETO.

In November we published the following card from Mr. James S. Howard:

A Card.

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 1, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In the Weekly Standard of the 27th inst. I find published a letter from Jesse Applegate to Hon. L. F. Lane, charging Hon. W. H. Odell with cheating him (Applegate) out of a surveying contract, and selling out the same to Howard & Turner, which latter part I pronounce utterly and entirely false. The statement which he makes in his letter, that I "told George Nurse, the proprietor of Linkville," that we were to divide the profits of our contract with Surveyor-General Odell, is a base fabrication, and raises a question of veracity between himself and Mr. Nourse. There was never any proposal or agreement between Mr. Odell, Wm. M. Turner and myself that he (Odell) should have any part of the proceeds of our surveying contract, and neither he nor any one has received any per cent. of any surveying contract in which I have been interested. Please publish the above, that the truth may prevail. Respectfully, JAS. S. HOWARD.

Mr. Applegate, in defense of himself, sends us the following letter and answer, which explain themselves, the answer being endorsed on the back of the letter:

CLEAR LAKE, Cal., March 13, 1877.

GEO. NURSE, Esq.—Dear Sir: Four years ago this spring you came from Linkville to Clear Lake in my company. I think you were on a wool buying expedition, as we stopped for dinner at Mrs. Boddy's and you bought here. And you went from Clear Lake by way of Langell valley on the wool and other business. In the forenoon we were talking as we rode along of the great increase of corrupt practices among public officers since the rebellion. Among other things you related a conversation you had with Deputy Surveyor Howard after he ceased to enjoy the patronage of Surveyor General Odell. You said you remarked to Mr. Howard that he did not get contracts because he did not offer enough for them; that he ought to offer half. That Mr. Howard replied that "he had always given Odell that much."

I am almost certain the above are the precise words of your communication, and very certain it is the precise ideas expressed. I have been thus particular in naming time, place and circumstance, to direct your memory to the conversation, and not doubting it did take place between you and Howard as you related it to me, I think it is my right to receive from you a full confirmation of the facts, for which I insist before you leave the country.

Hoping you will give this matter your earliest attention, I remain yours truly,

JESSE APPLEGATE.

Mr. Nurse's Answer.

MARSH 16th, 1877.

In a conversation with Mr. Howard, he said at Linkville to me, that he could not get certain contracts which he had applied for. I said to him I supposed he did not offer to divide with him. He replied that as he had always done that, and he thought some others had offered to do better. Respectfully yours, GEORGE NURSE.

Public worship at the Presbyterian church, conducted by Dr. Lindsley. In the morning service, an Easter sermon. Subject for the evening: "Treatment of Mouths and Parasites at the Closed Door." Sunday school at 12:30. Prayer meeting at 7.

Unitarian Church.—Service at 11. Mr. Calvin will preach on "Easter, the Joyous Festival of the Resurrection." The monthly collection for charity will be taken up. In accordance with a vote of the church, the communion service will be held at 3 P. M. instead of at noon, as heretofore. Evening service omitted.

Taylor-street M. E. Church.—Preaching in the morning at 11 o'clock by the pastor, C. V. Anthony. Subject—"The Lord is Risen Indeed." Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the close of public worship. Sunday school at 2 P. M. Praise service at 6½ P. M. Missionary concert in the evening by the Sunday school. Prayer meeting Thursday evening. All are invited to attend.

Rev. D. J. Pierce will preach at the Baptist church at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Communion at the close of the morning service. All members urged to be present. In the evening the pastor will deliver a lecture, first prepared for the State Teachers' Institute at Forest Grove, 1876, entitled, "Our School System and its relation to Church and State." Young people's meeting at 6:30 P. M.

THE MARKET STREET SCHOOL AGAIN

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The school building at the corner Third and Market streets must be in a bad fix indeed when it requires so tight a floor to keep out the foul gases from the slimy pool of filth that is under it, as is represented in the statement of the teacher which has been published. The explanation itself is convincing proof that it is no fit place for children. If our public schools are in such a high state of efficiency, why is such a building as this kept? It was so unhealthy as to compel several of the children to leave there a long time ago, as was announced in the papers at the time. It was in such a filthy and unhealthy condition as to cause the resignation of a most faithful teacher, who had long been engaged in the schools. And now when the subject is defended by the present teacher (at the command, as I hear, of the city superintendent), she says that by keeping ex ra tight floors and ventilating at every recess, the most of the foul air is kept out of the room. It is a matter which will illustrate the present efficient management.

A PATRON.

SINGING IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The Advocate of Thursday says that its editor has learned from Prof. King that the statement, which was published some mornings since, concerning the prohibition of singing religious or Sunday school songs in the schools, is entirely false. If Prof. King has made such statement, his memory must be treacherous indeed. I have the authority of Profs. Johnson, Pratt and Anderson for making the statement that Prof. King did make such order, and did tell them not to allow the children to sing such songs. The word of these men is certainly of more weight than that of Mr. King. As to the other statement, about the reading of the Bible, no one ever claimed it was prohibited. Had the teachers obeyed the order to prohibit such songs, the probabilities are that the Bible would also have been prohibited, as it is understood that Mr. King is a professed Infidel. At the time the order was made Mr. King told the teachers that it came from Mr. Morgan. FAIR PLAY.

TEACHERS' MONTHLY INSTITUTE.

The eighth session of the Teachers' Monthly Institute will be held to-day in the Central School building, commencing at 9 A. M. The following is the programme:

Chorus—"May comes Laughing o'er the Plains."

Class Exercise—"Written Music," Miss A. C. Abbott.

Chorus—"Sleighing song."

Reading—"The Rights of Pupils," Miss A. B. Shelby.

Essay—"Object Teaching," Miss Mary Fraser.

Violin Solo—"Therien Wakras," Miss Dora McCord.

Address—"Penmanship," Walter Johnson.

Quartette—"Boat Glee."

Reading—"Painter of Seville," Miss Aphia Dimick.

An elucidation of the "Metric System," by Miss M. A. Hodgdon.

THE COURTS.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Notice auction sale of teas by S. L. Jones & Co., next Thursday in San Francisco.

The recent opening in Strowbridge's building has proven to be a great attraction. Mr. Cran has certainly won a large patronage since the opening. We congratulate him and trust he will be as liberally patronized in the future. See the latest arrivals.

Fishel & Roberts make their spring announcements to-day. Mr. Roberts has spent considerable time in selecting for the home trade, and the display made indicates that he has done well. The firm may expect a large trade for some time. Call this evening.

SILVER SPRING MINES.—We understand that a number of colored gentlemen who are largely interested in the Silver Spring mines, recently discovered in Wasco county, have purchased a steam engine formerly used on the O. S. N. Co.'s wharf. One thousand dollars were paid by the company for the engine, which will soon be shipped to the Springs and employed working the mines.

S. S. CONCERT.—To-morrow morning at a quarter to 10 o'clock, a concert is to be held by the Lee Chapel Sunday School in East Portland. A very fine programme has been prepared under the leadership of some of the best musical talent of this city. The public are invited.

SURPRISE.—A large number of ladies and gentlemen completely surprised Mr. H. B. Oatman and his wife at their residence on Thursday night. The parlors were cleared and the assembly passed several hours in dancing, social intercourse and whist.

SERVICES AT THE DALLES.—We are requested to state that Rev. Dr. Geo. H. Atkinson will conduct divine service at the Congregational church in The Dalles, morning and evening, Sunday.

Portland, March 30, 1877.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

As the day approaches which is to decide the present contest with reference to the public schools of our city, I desire to express through your paper the sentiment of a large number of our prominent citizens, which has hitherto been withheld. Intelligent readers of the leading journal of the Northwest, for the last two weeks, have opened its pages day after day upon scandal and insult, so petty and so contemptible, as to make every one except the rankling few who chuckle over the game, dread its coming into their household,—and that too, against men whose business integrity and private life stand above reproach; men who are known to every citizen of this place, as honest straightforward, single minded, and fair. Now, with this scandal, I have little to do. It is unworthy of notice, and therefore unworthy an answer. The most that can be made of it, in itself, amounts to nothing in the matter at stake, with a candid mind, but back of it all, there lies a spirit and a motive, that cannot be misunderstood, and it is these concealed issues that we have to bear. What littleness, and what bigotry, let me ask, must have possessed the mind of those, who without reference to any other sect in Jewry or Christendom, went to work and counted out the Judaisms employed in these schools? and "if sectarianism be the test (as, God be praised, it is not) where stands the man who has been chosen as one providentially appointed to raise our benighted institutions unto wisdom and light? and what sect, as a solid body, goes with him? Now, all bickering over sects and isms I despise; but when we come face to face with a body whose history for eleven long centuries has been one continued conflict against the State, we may not wisely shut our eyes or wink at it. It may be that you would be willing to trust your children with such benefactors (?) to free institutions, but I prefer to have mine excused.

I have watched the charges brought against the directors, and the city superintendent, from the beginning with deep interest. I fail to see in them anything dignified, relevant or tangible. If that stove blacking affair had been dragged before the public by people of any other calibre, they would have made themselves the laughing stock of the whole community, and deservedly, too. I care not who the men and women may be; but to make such convenient capital out of a matter so trivial—based upon mutual agreement—after two years' standing, displays skill and intrigue. Capt. Ainsworth and Hon. W. S. Ladd are men well known; they are men of business ability and integrity; they know what they have to do, and do it; they are not the men to sell themselves unto a third party, or to be overriden by it, be he colleague, teacher, or superintendent; nor have they ever been; and all this cry about electioneering all their authority to Mr. Morgan is simply absurd to any one who knows the men. I say it regretfully, but honestly, if some few of the teachers could know how seriously their positions, not only in this matter, but others pertaining to school interests and wholesome discipline, reflects upon themselves, they would think it might be worth their while to drop A. B. and C. for a while and look to themselves. Rancor, jealousy, littleness and spite are too prominent in this matter to be misunderstood; and the position of the comp ainant is too trivial to be brought to bear upon a subject so broad as the education of our children. For one, I witness with profound shame the expression of abuse which is thrust upon Mr. Morgan by the community which he has so honestly and generously served during the last three years; and with equal shame, the grave injustice done Mr. King. Our public schools, our pride, must be based upon sounder principles than have been exemplified in this contest before they can be secure. J. H. R.

COMMUNICATION.

PORTLAND, March 30, 1877.

Recognizing the experience and faithful labor given by Mr. Amos H. Morgan during the past three years, as Director of School District No. 1, and desirous to still further the interests of the schools, we, the undersigned, unite in desiring his re-election to that position, and cordially pledge him our earnest support therefor:

EAST PORTLAND AND VICINITY.

Fourth street bridge has been condemned on account of defective timbers. It makes it very inconvenient for those coming into town from the south, but doubtless repairs early made will obviate the difficulty.

We regret to announce the sudden illness of Capt. N. S. Gillam, of Mount Tabor. He has been a great sufferer for two days past with a kind of bilious colic. Under Dr. Rafety's skillful treatment we hope to hear soon of his convalescence.

We learn that Mr. J. S. Newell, who removed to California about a year ago, has purchased one hundred acres of the Collins place of Mr. E. M. Burton, and will shortly return to Oregon and make it his permanent home. All are glad of this, as Mr. Newell was one of our best citizens.

Notwithstanding the well conducted ferry of the Knott brothers, the bridge-over-the-Willamette fever is again raging, but perhaps not more so than the public good demands. The whole country will be the richer for having such a bridge at this place, but this side of the river will be especially benefited.

Mrs. Barlow, of Los Angeles, Cal., daughter of Capt. E. L. Chapman, of Olympia, W. T., while on a visit to her sister, wife of Prof. A. L. Francis, has been called to suffer with an excruciating attack of disease of the hip bone. She is under the medical treatment of Dr. R. S. Parker, who has strong hopes of early abatement of the disease.

Charley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Collins, aged two years, who died of pneumonia on the City of Chester as that vessel came into Astoria, on Wednesday morning last, was buried at Mount Tabor cemetery yesterday at 10 o'clock, A. M. The deeply bereaved parents are now stopping at Mr. Harvey's, who is brother-in-law of Mr. Collins.

On Thursday last a fortuitous accident came near occurring by the bridge near Dr. Raffety's. Three boys were in a two horse wagon, and just before reaching the bridge a defective breast strap gave way, letting the tongue of the wagon fall to the ground. The frightened horses dashed off at a fearful rate, and just missed going over the precipice at the end of the bridge. The wagon was caught fast in the end of the bridge railing; the horses, breaking loose, ran at a furious rate for a half mile beyond, where they were caught. The team belonged to Mr. Peterson, near Mount Tabor. Lesson—Look to it that your harness is sound in every particular.

Portland, March 29, 1877.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The ($19) organ of Messrs. King, Morgan and Glenn has not explained that the Third street school is in a deplorable condition. It also admits that Mr. Morgan prevented Mr. Ladd from resigning. On what does this man Morgan feed, that he should thus act. Has he not been director three years, and why does he seek a re-election when he finds out that he is so objectionable? Give us a change.

Mr. Morgan seems to take much credit to himself for the standing of the schools. I hope the people will remember that many of the teachers who are opposed to Mr. Morgan have labored hard for years in the schools, and their wishes should be respected.

I attack Mr. Morgan for procuring an unhealthy building on Third street for 103 little boys and girls, and I attack Mr. King for knowingly assenting to this.

To whom is the "present high standing of the schools" to be accredited? I answer, to the teachers who do the work; the teaching is what makes scholars. I do not wish to detract from the Board for many things they have done; but I do claim the Board has nobly elected the teachers,—the teachers did the work, and I hope that on Monday next the people will remember these same teachers and the good work they have done. Did not Mr. Morgan declare "that he never saw a place where the teachers were so well paid, and made so much fuss, as in Portland," when Prof. J. W. Johnson told him about the exactions of the City Superintendent? Such language as the above in answer to complaints from one of our oldest and most conscientious teachers, is not right, and it indicates a temper that should be under better control in a public position.

Has not Mr. Morgan induced Mr. King to promise not to apply for his present position in order to elect himself, if possible, so that he will then be in a position to vote against the re-election of any teacher who does not now endorse himself and Mr. King, as he voted against Mr. Johnson last July.

CATARRH.

State Penitentiary, Colo. Ter., Dec. 2, 1876.

Rocky Mountain Medical Co., Denver, Colo.

Gentlemen:—Having had a severe case of Catarrh, and the "Prevalence of Catarrh an Epidemic" of Rural Districts, I procured your Radical Cure, and after using it for a short time was entirely cured. I have since recommended it to many persons afflicted with Catarrh, and in every instance it has proved a perfect cure. Yours truly,

JOHN H. CHIVINGTON, Chaplain.

"Every nine out of ten adults in this whole region of country is afflicted with Catarrh. It seems to be climatically an endemic out in this Atmosphere. Mr. Smith tells me that the three dozen bottles of RADICAL CURE were immediately sold, and that he had forty orders for more within the last three weeks, but had none here to supply from."

The Mr. Smith referred to is of the firm of Smith & Doll, furniture dealers, Denver. When in Boston about a year ago he purchased eleven bottles of —— Catarrh Remedy, and one of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, the latter at the earnest request of a personal acquaintance. He had seen the first named remedy but had not heard of the latter. Shortly after his arrival in Denver we received an order for a dozen of the Radical Cure, and soon another with the pleasing intelligence that Mr. Smith was cured. The prevalence of the disease coupled with the recommendations of Mr. Smith, soon created a lively demand, and without advertising nearly three hundred bottles were sent out. This is a striking illustration of what is frequently done for this remedy as a return for relief from long and painful suffering.

CATARRH.

ASTHMA, BAD COUGH, ETC., CURED.

Gentleman—My case is briefly as follows: I have had Catarrh for ten years, each year with increasing severity. For nine years I had not breathed through one nostril. I had dropplings in the throat, a very bad cough, asthma so bad as to be obliged to sit down and sleep, and a constant dull pain in my head. My head was at times so full of catarrhal matter as to injure my sense of hearing and compel me to get up several times in the night to clear it and my throat before I could sleep. Every one of these distressing symptoms has disappeared, under the use of not quite three bottles of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. My hearing is fully restored. I have no asthmatic symptoms, no cough, no droppings in the throat, no headache, and in every way better than I have been for years. I could feel the effects of the Cure on my appetite, on my kidneys and in fact every part of my system. What has been done in my case is wholly the effect of the Radical Cure. Very respectfully,

C. H. LAWRENCE.

Fitchburg, Oct. 14.

Endorsed by a Prominent Druggist.

I hereby certify that Mr. Lawrence purchased the RADICAL CURE of me, and from time to time made me familiar with his case. I believe his statement to be true in every particular.

JAS. P. DERBY.

Fitchburg, Oct. 4.

The above severe case was a combination of several ailments, viz: Bad cough, asthma, deafness, headache, etc., each of which might, by the most intelligent physician be treated separately, whereas they were but a variety of forms assumed by one terrible disease—Catarrh. "I could feel the effect of the Cure in every part of my system." This statement shows that this remedy acts upon the cause of Catarrh, viz: The acidified blood, a poison, which attacks every vital organ and is eliminated from the system only by the RADICAL CURE.

Each package contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, with full directions for use in all cases. Price $1 00. For sale by all wholesale and retail druggists throughout the United States. WEEKS & POTTER, General Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 31, 1877.

THE MORAL DETECTIVE.

BEING THE ONLY TRUE ACCOUNT OF THE LIFE AND ADVENTURES OF PAUL PICRA.

"Murder will out, some time, sure," exclaimed Daniel Wonder, as he laid down a letter from which he had just been reading. "Such a case of mysterious murder, the perpetrators of which had been discovered after years of ingenious and tortuous search. Such have marvelous methods they are, according to the laws of nature, and must be so. If not right off, then by and by; if not to-day, to-morrow, next day, then a year, ten, fifty, perhaps a hundred years hence. The murder and the murderer are sure to come out. If I was on a plank alone with a man in the middle of the ocean, and was to murder him and sink him, with no ship in sight, couldn't feel safe! Some time or other something would bring me out. If I didn't tell of myself, asleep or awake, his bones would rise, or—"

"Oh, my stars!" ejaculated somebody.

"Oh, my stars, indeed, I mean. But his bones, clothes, the plank, or it might be somebody was looking at me from a ship out of sight, through a powerful glass, or perhaps from another plank, or perhaps Providence is ready overhead in milk pailoon, and see me do it, and so I could and sure I was not safe until at last the murderer and murdered. It [illegible] always a chain of evidence between the murderer and murdered. It may be broken [illegible] or long. It may be broken [illegible] many separate links; but in time [illegible] picks up a link here, another a link there, another, and so on, until all the links are found and put together, and they are strong enough to hang the man."

"It does seem so," said one of the listeners, somewhat awe.

"Seem so! It is so! I always knew [illegible] will out, and have seen many [illegible] to see of it. But the most singular [illegible] thing [illegible] of [illegible] the late of [illegible] Moss Creek, a clerk in a [illegible] goods store, and [illegible] covered up, as [illegible] to report, [illegible] no evidence was [illegible] so be left of it. He was uneasy [illegible] one day, and his body [illegible] found [illegible] three years afterwards. [illegible] up all hope of hearing about [illegible] how he came to his death, [illegible] or who or where [illegible] with a view of came [illegible] hearing of the murder [illegible] Picra, he undertook to find [illegible] at least the real criminal, [illegible] justice. This traveler's [illegible] Foxpaw, and he prided [illegible] on his perseverance—and he had a [illegible] daring, snappy kind of manner to take in everything [illegible] at a glance. People wished [illegible] but they didn't expect it. [illegible] Foxpaw was: they expected. [illegible] and some little for a [illegible] evidence."

"I don't see—"

"You can't see anything at. You must [illegible] how Solomon Foxpaw made inquiries, [illegible] he ascertained just [illegible] which would lead to the [illegible] and finally so [illegible] to himself. Here's a piece of wood [illegible] and that Picra was said to be [illegible]. What more likely than he should [illegible] the woods for his health and [illegible] wandered?"

"But, Daniel Wonder!"

"With this idea, Sol, without saying a word to anybody—because he hated [illegible] as bad as I do—walks out [illegible] the woods and kicks about [illegible] dry leaves, and examines the [illegible] and the rocks, and the trees, with [illegible] a clew."

"Find a clew?"

"Didn't I say so? Find a clew. You never will see, if you don't wait [illegible]. Be pretty soon [illegible] letters, carved on a [illegible] tree. Paul Picra's name—[illegible] among them at last he discovers [illegible] by themselves, the letters, [illegible] I suppose."

"What do you suppose. No, Paul [illegible] is supposed, for he knew what to [illegible]. He certainly cut those letters, [illegible] continued, and so put [illegible] link. Now, says [illegible] I've got something to work on, and [illegible] determined. Looking about him [illegible] Providence her fi- [illegible] a rusty jack knife, [illegible] bades. [illegible] three [illegible] by one, a little dis, and a li- [illegible] The boat was gone, but he felt a [illegible] that this knife was a second [illegible] he put it in his pocket. Look- [illegible] further he saw a crack [illegible] a rock, a wide crack be- [illegible] stones. Here and there [illegible] tied him [illegible] that there in that cave [illegible] was—very mysterious cave [illegible] that the brown was a spade, and [illegible] for several hours, till he [illegible] a foot deep. At last he [illegible] something. But all was rock. He dug [illegible] but all was rock. He dug [illegible] being much tired, he paused, [illegible] to suspect he was on the wrong [illegible] a less resolute man would have [illegible] but, No, says Foxpaw, 'I'll [illegible] another way.' And so he dug off [illegible] town again, and made further inquiries. About what Paul Picra said and [illegible] the last time he was seen; and [illegible] the jack knife confided to [illegible]. [illegible] has seen Paul have such a [illegible] but Foxpaw happened at last [illegible] old lady who remembered she had [illegible] some mixed yarn of Paul the day [illegible] missed. He seemed sick and un- [illegible] and said he wanted to go to sea [illegible] his health. This was all that Foxpaw [illegible] out of her. It seems little, but [illegible] strong, it's a good deal. 'Wanted to go [illegible] that's another link,' says Sol. [illegible] who goes to sea naturally goes to [illegible] place. I will go down to the [illegible] and inquire among the vessels.' [illegible] he went down, and by good luck he [illegible] the very thing that, for years past, the [illegible] schooner Flying Turtle had been in the habit of [illegible] stock from the city for [illegible] stores. 'Another link,' says Foxpaw. 'What more likely than that [illegible] knife in the skipper, went in the [illegible] to say to the city?'

"So he accosted the captain, who said he [illegible] sure he didn't, and that some- [illegible] had, and he shouldn't wonder. [illegible] half a link more,' says Foxpaw. 'I'll go in the Flying Turtle, and make [illegible] inquiries.'

"It was during this trip, only a day's [illegible] that he added three or four more [illegible] in his chain. On closely questioning the Captain the latter remembered that [illegible] the fatal day one of the passengers [illegible] Mosscreek to the city was a raw- [illegible] swarthy, ugly looking fellow, who [illegible] a disputed nose and a several- [illegible] jack-knife. He remembered a [illegible] blade in it, because it was the first he ever saw, and had said at the time that if [illegible] was as homely as the owner of the [illegible] he would cut his throat with it and [illegible] the consequences to other people. Foxpaw now saw the rusty knife, and [illegible] skipper said it might be the same, and added that the stranger's name was Murdman or Murtham, and that, landing [illegible] city, he had seen him at the Jolly [illegible] tavern, at the head of the wharf."

"Poor Paul Picra!" said one listener, [illegible] gratified.

"Why so?" said Daniel Wonder. "Sees this ugly fellow—don't you see?"

"Yes, I see; but I don't see—"

"But you must wait and see, or you will certainly see the inside. Up goes Solomon Foxpaw to the Jolly Tar, as interested as if he had been Paul Picra's brother—"

"Did he have a brother?"

"No one of your business—and asked the landlord to let him look at his arrival book of three years before. The landlord sent to the garret for it, and they overhauled it together; and, sure enough, there stood the name at the proper date, in a fierce, big hand, of Mike Murdman, and—"

"Paul Picra!"

"No! what do you know about it? Mike Murdman and Friend. This is the biggest link of the lot,' says Sol. To the landlord: 'Do your recollect what kind of a looking man his friend was?'

"'No,' says the landlord, 'but I recollect that next morning the two had a quarrel. They had slept together, and Murdman was charged by the other with stealing his money in the night. But Murdman swore 'O, and as proof, said he hadn't enough money to pay his own bill; and they went out quarreling, without paying. And that's the last I ever saw of the other fellow, to my knowledge.'

"'More links—I'm getting a chain!' says Foxpaw. 'Went out together, quarreling, about robbery. And did you ever see Murdman again?'

"'Oh, yes,' says the landlord. 'He's captain of a brig now. He came back a year afterward and paid his bill, and now he stops here every three months, every return trip he makes. It is time for him now; brig was due yesterday; if you stop it I'll introduce him to you.'"

"'Was the man hung?'"

"'Well, this beats all, I declare!' cried Daniel Wonder, exasperated. 'Here you are wanting to get to the end of the chain before you've got the links fastened together. You never would make a detective.'

"'I don't care anything about the links. All I want to know is, was the man hung? You've got me so excited I can hardly keep my seat. It would be a satisfaction to know if the man was hung, at the start.'

"'Well, he wasn't hung at the start, and never would have been, if Sol Foxpaw had been as impatient as you are. Have you no interest in the philosophy of the thing?'

"'No,' said the man, settled, 'and I don't care, now, whether the man was hung or not; I hope he wasn't, and I hope Paul Picra was cut into as many bits as there are links in your story!'

"'Go on, Daniel, go on,' said the others, 'and if he interrupts you again, we'll hang him.'

"'Well—Foxpaw waited three days, patiently, for the next link, and then the brig came to port, and Murdman came to the tavern, and the landlord introduced him to Foxpaw, over a glass, and they sat down to talk. Sol was usually a good fellow, but as he afterward said, he had his scruples about sitting down and talking with a murderer, and he felt very pale and nervous considering the critical [illegible] he was on. Sol eyed him carefully all over, and he seemed to look homelier and homelier the more he examined him. He though of poor Paul Picra, and felt ashamed of himself because he had set Making in a friendly manner with the monster, who for three years had escaped being hung, and who no doubt imagined he should escape forever.

"'I have drunk with him,' thinks Sol, 'but it was a means to an end; and as that end is a rope's end, I shouldn't feel ashamed, but I must begin to gather up more links, however I feel.' And pretty soon he said a good opening.

"'Do you chew?' says Mike Murdman.

"'I do,' says Sol, holding out a plug; 'and if you don't like to bite it off, here's a knife to cut it.' And he pulled out the rusty jackknife he had found in the woods.

"'What's this?' says Mike, staring at the knife, just as Sol expected he would.

"'Only a knife I found,' says Sol. 'Perhaps you're lost one. Does it belong to you?'

"'To me!' says Mike, looking at it with a shudder and coloring up. 'I guess not. Turn it back. I don't cut tobacco with such a knife as that!'

"'You needn't be afraid. It is rusty—but you don't think there's blood on it, do you?'

"'Blood!' says Mike, with another shudder.

"'Yes, blood,' repeats Sol severely. 'As I told you, here is that knife, and who knows but there's blood and human blood on it, which makes it so rusty? The murderer might have thrown it away, after he had done the deed, might he not, and thought nobody would find it?'

"'How should I know?'

"'It is an old knife,' continues Sol, 'but an older head owned it, I reckon. Yet the older heads are able to get out of their latitude and longitude. Now, you are a seafaring man, and have you ever been to Mosscreek?'

"'Mosscreek? Well, I may say I have, once.'

"'And more, too.'

"'No. Only once.'

"'Only once. And what did you go there for?'

"'I didn't go there for,' says Mike, with a kind of sneer, as if he was mad to be so questioned; and Sol saw he looked confused. 'I didn't go there for anything. I got drunk—stepped aboard the vessel by accident.'

"'By accident? A stranger there? Then you can't remember a young clerk, Paul Picra?'

"'No.'

"'Nor the woods—nor that cave?'

"'No.'

"'The right not. Short memory, I suppose?'

"'You ask a great many questions!' now say Mike. 'Are you crazy? You are very pale.'

"'It is you who are pale,' says Sol; and I want you to answer me some more question—'

"'Not another word till you take more brandy,' says Mike. 'You need it.'

"'One—one for me and two for himself,' thought Sol. 'His guilt makes him faint, and he wants a glass to stiffen him up. I'm willing. More drink will make him less cautious.'

"So he agreed, and they drank two or three times more. 'He seemed to gulp it down like a fish,' Sol said, 'and I thought I could soon get him drunk. But instead of that, I got floored myself. I lost all conscious ness and was put to bed, and the next day I was unable to find him anywhere. Suspecting that he had got the start of me, and had fled out of my reach for the present, I now thought,' says Sol, 'that the best thing I could do was to go back to Mosscreek for a day and have a talk with Paul's old employer and the town authorities.' So Solomon Foxpaw did go back and told them all he had discovered, and heard; and what do you think?' They actually laughed in his face, and said that all these links, which he had taken so much pains to get together, amounted to nothing!"

"'That was all they knew!' exclaimed Daniel Wonder's indignant hearers. "But how did Solomon Foxpaw get hold of the slippery murderer at last?"

"'He didn't get hold of him,' said Daniel Wonder.

"'No?'

"'No. What the authorities said discouraged him, and he then resolved that he would not pursue the search any further.'

"'But who did get the murderer?'

"'Nobody.'

"'Then, who found the body of Paul Picra?'

"'Everybody. For, on the very day when Foxpaw gave up the search, Picra came back to Mosscreek, safe and sound.'

"'What! Then he wasn't murdered at all?'

"'Why, no. I told you in the first place that it was a report. But it seems he had got a letter in the city, calling him home in a hurry, as his mother was dying, a long way off. He went home, and she died, and he inherited a rich property; and not caring a fig for the people in Moss Creek, he never wrote to them.'

"'Not murdered, after all!' cried the disappointed hearers. "Where was the singularity you spoke about, then?'

"'In the preservance of Solomon Foxpaw.'

"'Pshaw! O, pshaw! What did you work us up so for?'

"'That is what Solomon Foxpaw said to those who had excited himself so; but they said to him, as I said to you, that it was so reported, and that he had expected to work a miracle, without any reason—namely, to find, from no evidence at all, the dead body of a man who was not dead. And he was a dissatisfied as you are that the man turned up alive. But still, as I said before, murder will out, and no doubt if that Mike Murdman had murdered, and Paul Picra had been the one he killed, Solomon Foxpaw would have had him, some time, sure!"

Gold in New York, 104¾.

Legal Tenders in Portland—buying 95; selling 96.

About ten days ago the telegraph announced the fact that the Gold Exchange in New York, owing to the fact that greenbacks were so close to par and speculation in gold so dead, proposed to dissolve. Whether the dissolution actually took place it is not stated, but the New York Shipping List thinks that "with speculation eliminated gold and greenbacks would speedily be on an equality." It is, perhaps, too much to expect that the members of the Gold Room will retire from the field while there is any difference in value between the gold coin in which customs duties are collected and interest upon the national debt paid, and the greenbacks, which for other purposes form the currency of the greater part of the country. If they did so, their place would probably be taken by a host of money changers and brokers, for as long as gold is at a premium, or rather as long as greenbacks are at a discount, there will necessarily be a certain amount of business done in their interchange. But the gold room has had a particularly mischievous effect in creating and fostering speculations quite apart from legitimate business, and probably nine tenths of the transactions recorded have been purely speculative. Its existence has fictitiously widened the difference between the value of gold and paper, and the decrease in its business or the total abolition of the institution would be a benefit to the whole community.

Domestic Produce.

The receipts and shipments of wheat during the week have been very light, and as the roads in the interior are in a condition preventing much hauling, and there are no vessels here to load, all parties seem to be awaiting a change in circumstances before making any move toward the marketing of the surplus yet in the country. Should prices remain as at present, or depreciate, it is not at all likely that more than one or two foreign bound vessels will load here before harvest, though there may be several thousand centals sent to San Francisco, freights by sail to that port being very low and scarce. We see no reason to change our quotations of last week, all figures at this time being almost entirely nominal. The same steady and firm tone noticed in the flour market for the past two weeks is still observable, with small stocks on hand, light receipts and a moderately active demand for shipment both to San Francisco and to ports to the northward. Our quotations for oats embrace the different qualities which come to this market, some of which have been badly injured by dampness. A first class article, however, is not uncommon and commands our maximum figures. The demand for shipment is fair, but owing to the coldness of the weather the call for local consumption has shown somewhat a decline in volume. The aggregate of receipts are not large, nor is the surplus yet in the State above the wants for home consumption, believe to exceed a few thousand centals. Prices are steady at the prices given. Provisions have fluctuated somewhat during the week, though the market has not been very active. On the contrary, a feeling of uncertainty in regard to the trade in some quarters has given things in this line an unsteadiness, not warranted by the prices in other markets. Quotations are to-day about as last week, with a slightly depreciating tendency in the market for all except a choice quality of bacon for the local trade, and that is quotable firm. Dairy products have been coming forward quite freely, and prices are unimproved with the prospect of a further decline at an early day. The receipts of potatoes are still large enough to supply the current demand, and prices continue in the range of 30 to 40 cents per bushel. Apples of good shipping quality are scarce, and some improvement in prices is noticeable. A great many reaching the market are wrecked and are of an otherwise inferior quality. Hides, wool, etc., show no change since our former review.

Philadelphia Wool Market.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—Wool steady and firm, supply very light; Colorado washed, 20@26; unwashed, 16@20; extra and merino picked, 36@40; No. 1 and super pulled, 30@33. Texas fine and medium, 22@30; do coarse, 16@20. California fine and medium, 25@30; do. coarse, 18@25.

CITY ASSESSMENT.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE CITY Assessment Roll of the City of Portland (as revised and corrected) will remain open at the Auditor's office until the 21st day of April, 1877, prior to which time applications for corrections of errors must be filed.

Particular attention is directed to the following section of Ordinance No. 1113:

Section 3. Any person deeming himself aggrieved by the assessment, valuation or listing of property, may apply to the Common Council for a revision of the same.

Such application shall contain a list of all the property subject to taxation for city purposes, owned by, in the hands of or under the control of the applicant, and a concise statement of the particular item or items claimed to be erroneously assessed, which application shall in all cases be verified by oath or affirmation of the applicant; and must be filed with the Auditor before the 21st day of April following the date of the filing of the assessment Roll.

W. S. CALDWELL,
Auditor and Clerk.
